Single Copy—FIVE CENTS

G. A. HONOR STUDENTS ASSIGNED PARTS WED.

The first 10 positions in the 1944 graduating class of Gould Academy were announced Wednesday morning, March 22, as follows: Anna Aldrich, Brookline, Mass.; James Reid, Kezar Falls; Barbara Coolidge, Bethel; Marilyn Abbott, West Bethel; Edward Little, Bethel; Peggy Cates, East Vassalboro: Anne Litchard, Lincoln, Mass.; Francis Gilman, Lovell; Francis Berry and Margaret Hanscom, Bethel.

This year the speakers will be Umited to the first three honor students. Miss Anna Aldrich, daughter of A. C. Aldrich of 135 Beaconsfield Road, Brookline, Mass., will have the valedictory. James Reid, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Reid of Kezar Falls, will have the salutatory, and Miss Barbara Coolidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Coolidge of Bethel, to the amount of $38.40 paid to

. As it was unwise to have five speakers, and the next two people have tied for that position, there will be only three student speak-'ers at Commencement, and President Kenneth Sills of Bowdoin College, who will deliver the Commencement address. The main theme of the Commencement. which has not yet been decided upon, wil be announced at a later

Ringed on all sides, Jap troops in the South Pacific were given no rest by U. S. forces slowly pulverizing their defensive outposts to the Philippines and Asiatic mainland.

Desperate enemy attempts to unloose the doughboys' hold on Bougainville were repulsed after a day of savage fighting, and U. GAS RATIONS:

West Cut

Because of expanded farm and highway needs, gas rations for all "A" card holders west of the Alleghany mountains were cut from three to two gallons per coupon, the reduction being accomplished by extending the validity of the coupons from 7 to 10 days.

Effect of the OPA-action was to take away one of the three gallons on the "A" coupon allotted for essential driving, and bring westerners' "A" rations to the same level as in the 17 eastern states,

Cut in the "A" coupons does not affect holders of "B" and "C" couoons, who will be able to obtain additional ration allotments for occupational driving to offset the reduc-tion in the "A" card values.

GREAT BRITAIN:

Coal Strike

With the British government assenting to most of their demands, Wales' 100,000 coal miners went slowly back to work, as the threat to war production diminished.

Piece-workers' demands that their rates be raised to allow them to earn over the $20 minimum wage recently granted to all British miners, was one of the conditions met by the government. Also met were claims to special allowances for work in excessive dust and water.

The strikers also rebelled at the government's order that all miners buying coal cheaply in the fields would have to pay .30 weekly for the privilege.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

How can the Allied governments, the Allied armies, sworn to defend the cause of democracy, continue to deal with Italy's Fascist king and Marshal Badoglio and refuse to rece ognize the anti-Fascist conference of colitical parties recently organized at a meeting held in Bari, Italy?

The so-called "junta of the Committees of Liberation" named following the Barl conference, telegraphed to members of the British house of commons a message which contained this passage:

"Here Fascism, at first confused and fearful, has taken courage. It has assumed a mask and has rallied around the crown. Affecting a friendship which is too recent to be sincere, it has attempted to distort the judgment of your political and military officials. Once more oppressing our people as it has always done, it is putting all manner of legal and illegal obstacles in the way of any genuine popular initiative which tries to render more efficient and serious the contribution of liberated Italy to the war against the Germans.

Addressing the Barl conference, Italian Sen. Benedetto Croce had said:

"It is a fact that the waning prestige of the king and the lack of confidence in him preyent the king himself from rallying an Italian army; he himself, fearing the opposition against his person, has prohibited the formation of an army of volunteers. Many young men who came; toyme from; German-occupied territory full of enthusiasm were forced to disband, disappointment in their hearts, because they did not find anyone to rally them and give them the opportunity to fight."

Those statements seem forthright and fair. After reading them, I was not surprised when a fairly important but not "fairly" informed person said to me:

"The Ailies are lined up with the

That seems to me a typical attitude, and one that the average man reflects when he considers the socalled "deals" the American government has made, the arrangement with Darlan in North Africa, for instance. Think of the abuse heaped upon the state department in that case—the deluge of flery "liberal" criticism at home and in England, the wrath of De Gaulle and the rest of the French anti-Vichyites.

Bitter Reaction

And then, when on the tenth of last month it was announced that our famed AMG, the carefully trained, objective military government provided by the Allies, who had taken over the civilian administration of liberated Italy, had turned over the government in these provinces from which the Germans had been driven, to the Badoglio government, what a deluge of bitter and cynical comment was hurled at the Allied leaders.

Is there any explanation? Can there be any excuse for the United of totalitarian government, playing ball with the little king and his satellites who danced to the tune of Mussolini?

Well, there is another side but because of the delicacy of the altuation. it cannot be set forth officially.

I am permitted to state it without attribution, quoting no source, but assuring you, that to the best of my knowledge and belief, it represents the reasons behind the policy of the Allied leaders.

LEW BURNET has been engaged by TOM ARNOLD, owner of the Cross T. so act as trail boss on the drive from southern Texas to Ogaliala in the spring of 1875. Tom with his son and daughter, STEVE and JOY, are moving to Wyo-ming. Tom must cellver 3,000 longhorms to the Indian agent by September 1 or loss a profitable contract. Lew has reason to believe that the Indian Supply Co. Is trying to delay the Cross T. Lew heads west, and successfully brings the herd through the dangers from duststorms and drouth, to the banks Clethe med River. Lew rides on to Doan's store, and finds that none of the other serds have crossed yet. Back at camp, he has another run-in with ED SPLANN.

CHAPTER VIII

The Indian Supply Company's Open A might be among those herds held up on the south bank by the high water of the Red River. Or they may have crossed before the rains. He wanted to know some way without his own presence being known. Unless there had been a leak, his Cross T had vanished completely as far as the Open A knew. Lew slid his horse down the high riverbank and then on the gravel shore rode at a lope again. Little side ravines began to cut the red wall in half an hour's riding. He came to Doan's flatboat ferry tied up because of the flood. He had seen no one. He rode on to a point that would bring him up behind the store and hid his horse in the wil-

Noise of the crowd that had gathered here floated off the rim. He walked directly up into it, the wild, mingled voices of two or three hundred restless men spending their time and money in the only two ways that Doan's store offered.

Whoever Doan was he didn't know. This place had been here long before his first trip up the trail.

As soon as he walked in, even while his eyes caught little at first in the dim light, he had a quick sense of something wrong. The room was not crowded. Trail men, took their drinks outside. He saw mostly, among the fifteen or twenty figures, the blue, yellow-striped uniforms of the army moving across the damp clay floor. The talk was I low; the smells of tobacco and liquor and oiled leather were right.

Then farther inside he knew. It was the big Swede's jovial voice he missed so quickly. Ole Soderlund wasn't here. He had counted on Ole. They were friends and they could talk, and that talk would never leak out of the Swede's head.

A man he didn't know was on a high stool behind the counter at the back of the room. He was small and wore a black suit with a white shirt, oddly out of place in this frontier store. Shrewd eyes in a pinched face were watching him closely.

He reached the counter. "Soderlund gone?"

Only a curt nod answered him. "For good?"

"Sold out," He could feel a guarded suspicion behind the shrewd eyes and he wondered. Did he look like anything but another trail hand? "Something you want?"

"Maybe," he said and turned away, putting aside for now the one question he had come here to ask. Tonight's celebration called for a treat. He found the sardines on a shelf and took down fourteen cans. A trail crew always ran short of tobacco. He apread his rawhide coat and piled into it with the sardines a five-pound box of Honey Tip Twist for the old men who chewed and a dozen cloth sacks of Dixie Durham for the smokers.

Three army men stood around an open cracker barrel. He turned to one who had a lieutenant's gold bars. "What brings you boys so far south?"

The lieutenant smiled, "Whisky," "Well" - he grinned - "there's plenty of it!" He looked at the smooth boyish face and thought the government never did show much sense. Like this youngster. A green West Pointer hardly twenty-two or three sent out here to cut his milk teeth on the Indians.

Soberly the lieutenant was saying, "You're right, there's plenty here. Too much liquor too close to the reservation. I'll warn you. If you're going north don't load up your wagons with more than you need. There's a tribe loose. If they cut your herd for beef don't trade them whisky instead."

saw was a reason for the new trader's watchfulness. Ole Soderlund had never traded snake-juice across the Red. But it could be a good "Comanches loose again?" he asked. "No, it's the Dakota Cheyennes, They're out on a hunting permit after antelope. Six hundred of them. But antelope are scarce. Trail beef is a lot easier." The lieutenant looked stern. "Don't ack me for help if you get caught, You Texans have got no right crossing the Nations. There's a treaty against that." "Sure, a treaty!" Thus boy was talking out of a book, "Ind any Texan sign it? I know. We ought to drive clean around by way of the Mississippi!" Lew grinned and stared on? "No hard feelings, Bub. Come and get a good meal if you

A great chief, Red Cloud, had led that break. Red Cloud was not here now; he was a guest at the capitol in Washington where ladies of the Indian Friends' society were making fools of themselves and a bigger one out of him. It was all in the papers. As good a way as any, Lew guessed, to tame a wild Cheyenne. But there were young chiefs with the tribe, more dangerous even than the old one because they knew white men's tricks and had known white women. He could handle them if they stayed sober. Outtalk them and present a few old mossyhorns from the herd. But full of whisky-

"You did. That's what I want to

He shrugged, warned, "Never mind. My question wasn't so important." He walked out slowly, taking his time, yet even more guarded, and threw a long look around the clearing before he turned toward the river. He had seen nothing, But as soon as he was gone a man whom he might have recognized stepped from behind the buffalo-bone pile and hurriedly entered the store.

The late afternoon turned gray beneath a bank of thunderclouds, Dark niggerheads plied up, flat at the base, round on top. Loping back nlong the river bottom, that was his only troubling thought. A storm would spoil the evening's celebra-

Only Joy said, 'Lew, just like Christmas!" and smiled at him, her eyes lingering with a steady warmth as if to tell him something,

He didn't understand the look, but this meal was like Christmas dinner, that one time at home on the Cross T when crew and family ate together in the big front room. A ruddy glow from the pit flooded the bent dark and light and hald heads as if from the fireplace of the room, while branches of elm and oak arched a roof above them.

He was halfway along the table with Rebel John, his inevitable partner, at his right elbow. Tom Arnold occupied one end, Joy the other. He watched Tom.

This was their last meal on Texas soil. He looked around the table and knew that some of these men, chances were, would never come back to it. He saw Joy watching him again.

Roger B. Whitman-WNU Features. CRACKED PLASTER

Question: What is best to do with cracked plaster? We have had some of the cracks refilled with plaster but after a year or two these cracks are worse than before, as the new plaster has fallen out. What do you think of covering the walls and ceilings of bathroom and kitchen, which at present are painted, with wallcloth-the kind that can be painted over? A friend has just said that putting a wallcloth on the walls and ceilings would tend to pull the plaster off the walls. Would this be possible?

Answer: Wide cracks should be cut out so that they are wider at the lath than on the surface; in hardening, the patch will lock itself into place. You can get patching plaster at a hardware store.

Death of 91-Year-Old California Author Recalls How He, as Young Army Lieutenant, Recorded for Posterity Famous Speech of a Great Indian Chief

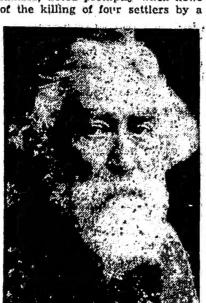

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Released by Western Newspaper Union. HE recent death of Col. 1. Charles Erskine Scott Wood in California recalls one of the most dramatic incidents in American military history, for he was one of the chief actors in that drama. It was the surrender of Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indians in the Bear Paw mountains of Montana on October 5, 1877, after his epic retreat of more than 1,000 miles which won for him a place among the great captains of all time.

Colonel Wood, then a young lieutenant on the staff of Gen. O. O. Howard, was present at the surrender, took down the Indian leader's "surrender speech" and it is to him that we are indebted for a complete and accurate text of what has become a classic of American oratory.

The story of the Nez Perce war of 1877 and of Chief Joseph's retreat is too familiar a tale to need repetition in all its details here. Its origin was the old, old story of a broken treaty, of white men covetous for Indian lands, of white aggression that brought about retaliation by the red man and then a call for troops to "put down an Indian uprising." In this case, however, the leader of the Nez Perces did not decide to try to defend his native soil by fighting the soldiers. Instead, he conceived the bold plan of fleeing with his people to Canada, fighting only if the troops barred his road.

Gen. O. O. Howard, commander of the Military Department of the Columbia, acted promptly when news young Nez Perce warrior marked the opening of the "war." He began concentrating troops at all strategic points to surround the Nez! Perce. The first engagement took i place on June 17 when Captain Perry and a small body of troops attacked Joseph's camp in White Bird canyon. Displaying unexpected military skill, Joseph laid a trap for Perry and all but annihilated his

After this defeat General Howard took the field himself and the chase was on. Before it was ended the Nez Perce leader outwitted, outfought and outmarched the troops of Howard, Colonel Sturgis of the Seventh cavalry and several other detachments sent to intercept him. To realize the greatness of his achievement one has but to read this brief

The Nez Perce leader was encumbered with women and children whom he refused to desert and allow them to full into the hands of the soldlers, as he might have done several times to facilitate his flight. His fighting force never at any time exceeded 300 warriors. Yet with these handleaps he fought 11 engagements, five of them pitched battles, and he lost only one. In the other six skirmishes he killed 120 and wounded 140 of the 2,000 soldiers Perce" by Colonel Wood which apwho were on his trail at one time or

The scene which followed is described by Wood in a letter which has never before been published. It follows:

"The surrender was October 5, 1877. Joseph rode up the hill near to sunset to where we were-Howard, Miles, Chapman, the interpreter; Oscar Long, adjutant to Miles, Guy Howard, the general's son and aide de camp, and myself. I was aide de camp, also adjutant general in the field-in charge of records,

"Three or four men on foot hung headed. Joseph's hair hung in two braids on each side of his face. He wore a blanket-I do not remember the color, but I would say gray with a black stripe and I would say it was girdled about his waist but carried up and around his shoulders. Under his blanket he wore a woolen shirt open at the throat, a dark color-I am inclined to think it was army blue. He wore moccasins and after the fleeing Nez Perces leggings. His rifle was across the pommel in front of him. When he dismounted he picked up his rifle, pulled his blanket closer around him and walked toward General Howard and offered him the rule. Howard waved him toward Miles. He then walked to Miles and began his speech." The text of that historic speech as given by Colonel Wood follows:

Tell General Howard I know his heart. What he told me before-I have it in my heart.

I am tired of fighting. Our chiefs are killed. Looking Glass is dead. Too-hul-hul-sult is dead. It is the young men now who say "yes" and "no" (vote in the council). He who led on the young men (Ollicut, his brother) is dead. It is cold and we have no blankets. The little children are freezing to death. My people-some of them-have run away to the hills and have no blankets, no food. No one knows where they are-perhaps freezing to death. I want to have time to look for my children and see how many of them I can find; maybe I shall find them among the dead. Hear me, my chiefs, my heart is sick and sad. From where the sun now stands I will fight no more forever! The above version of the "surrender speech" is the one given in an article "Chief Joseph, the Nez peared in the Century magazine for May, 1884. Wood was born in Erie, Pa. February 20, 1852, the son of Willlam Maxwell Scott, who was the first surgeon-general of the United States navy. Educated at Erie academy and Baltimore city college he was appointed to the United States Military academy at West Point at the age of 18 by President Grant. He was graduated in 1874 and soon after receiving his commission as a second lieutenant was assigned to duty at Fort Bidwell in northeastern California.

Are Books Essential?

Ca oday millions are deriving help, inspiration, courage and diversion—from books.

Books are saving priceless man hours by making available, to all who can read, all the skills of all the crafts so vital to victory. Books are explaining to a bewildered nation why we fighthow, and where, and whom we fight.

Books reveal our friends, unmask our enemies. Books help us to understand our country, our world, the history,

SWEATERS $2.50 to $5.00

PINE CABLE

This traditional cable-stitch sweater has been made in the old Scottish tradition. It will never lose its shape...because the sweater has been wa hed and blocked into shape after being knitted. This, like so many fine ideas is another McGregor origination!
